The conference hotel room rate is $199.00/night, which reflects a competitive market rate for the fall season in New England. We have secured a block of rooms for conference attendees for the nights of September 28, 29, and 30. Rooms can be reserved by individual guests by calling the hotel directly. The conference rate is also available for the two nights prior to conference, September 26 and 27, and the two nights after conference, October 1 and 2, on a space available basis. If you plan to extend your stay to those dates before or after conference, we recommend that you make your reservation as soon as possible.

Recognized as a Historic Hotels of America, the majority of guest accommodations at the Portland Regency are deluxe rooms with one King bed. Some King bed rooms offer the option of a pull-out couch, and a limited number of roll-away cots are available. The hotel does have a smaller number of rooms with two Double beds available.

When calling to make your hotel guest room arrangements, please reference 2016 Occupational Science Conference and be sure to specify your preference for a King bed or Double bed room, as well as any requests for a pull-out couch or roll-away cot.

The deadline for individual call-in to reserve hotel rooms is Tuesday September 6, 2016.
